RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living in Alexandria, a negro boy, of a yellowish complexion, called JOE PAIN, about 16 years of age—had on when he went away a pair of home-spun pantaloons, mixed with blue black and white, and generally wore them without suspenders tied round his waist with a string;
likewise, had on a blue cloth roundabout jacket. I think it probable that he may have changed them. He is apt to be impudent when spoken to and speaks very quick. It is supposed he is at present lurking about the hay yard, though he is frequently in Alex-

POETICAL DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE PORT FOLIO.

HYMN TO THE EVENING STAR.

From the Greek of Callistratus.

MILD Star of eve, whose tranquil beams
Are grateful to the queen of love,
Fair planet, whose effulgence beams
More bright than all the host above,
And only to the moon's clear light,
Yields the first honors of the night.

All hail! thou soft, thou holy star!
Thou glory of the midnight sky!
And when my steps are wandering far,
Leading the shepherd minstrelsy,
Then if the moon deny her ray,
Oh! guide me, Hesper, on my way.

No savage robber of the dark,
No foul assassin claims thy aid,
To guide his dagger to its mark,
Or light him on his plundering trade.
My gentle errand is to prove
The transports of requited love.

CORDS AND TASSELS.

Her untied cords and tassels yonder Belle Intends, ye Bucks, as innuendo sly;
Thus loosely dangling, they are meant to tell,
The wearer wants a Beau, the noose to tie.

STANZAS

If there exists a charm more dear
Than Beauty's dazzling dye,
It lives in Pity's generous tear,
And virtue's hallow'd sigh.

For by that tear the soul's refin'd
That flows at Pity's call;
The gentle sigh improves the mind
That heaves for other's thrall.

An aged gentleman a few days ago, in a party was observed to pay particular attention to one of the young ladies, who, in the course of the evening dropped her glove, which the gentleman picked up and put it into his pocket. The next day he sent the glove to the lady with the following lines:—

If you from Glove do take the letter G,
The Glove is love, and that I send to thee.

JOHN PAGE.

The lady immediately returned for answer:—

If you from Page do take the letter P,
The Page is age, and that wont do for me.

[London paper.]

Anecdote of the late Lord Chesterfield.—A high post being once vacant under Geo. II. some of his courtiers ventured to recommend to his majesty a certain Nobleman, not knowing that the King had predisposed of the place in favor of another gentleman;—and his majesty seeing them so anxious to serve their friend, contrary to his private intentions, went to the window, threw up the sash in a pet, and turning his back upon them, said, "You may put in the devil, if you please."—Whereupon his Lordship who was to fill up the commission, going up to the King, said very gravely, "Sir if I put in the devil, shall I address him in the usual form of To our well beloved cousin and faithful counsellor?" This diverting question threw his majesty into a violent fit of laughter, and entirely dispelled his resentment.

[Ibid.]

From the LONDON COURIER.

"REVOLUTIONARY SYSTEM OF AUSTRIA."

In the Moniteur there is a tone of undiminished virulence against Austria, and Bonaparte has published in it a long article, entitled, Materials for a history of the Revolutionary System of Austria during the year 1809.—It is attributed to a German, in order no doubt, to give more weight to the accusations urged against the former Chief of the German Empire, and to render that prince more alive to the insults heaped upon him.—But this subterfuge does not conceal the hand from whence they have proceeded, nor will the new point of view under which Bonaparte depicts the conduct of Austria deceive any body.—It is easy to discover in that article how much he dreads the effects of a system by which the people were endeavored to be roused against those hordes whom terror and seduction had assembled under his banners; by which spirited proclamations were opposed to his incendiary addresses, and statements full of strong and striking truths were put in contrast with his impudent and lying bulletins. Undoubtedly it was not to be expected that the heir of the French Revolution, the child and champion of Jacobinism, who was condemned to obscurity during the period that succeeded the Reign of Terror, because he had served it with all the phrenzy of fanaticism and ferocity; who has every where substituted usurpation for legitimacy, and subjected to a regular march what had been before in France only the result of the instinct of crime, and the blind impulse of revolt, it was not to be expected that such a man would have accused Austria of having followed the steps of the National Convention, and of having wished in 1809 to operate in Europe a revolution as general as that which the Jacobins meditated towards the end of the year 1792.

He seems to be convinced by the manner in which he has been attacked, and by the vast plan that was formed to terminate the sufferings of Europe, that the secret of his power has been discovered while the people have been taught the secret of their force. Such a discovery was well calculated to excite his apprehensions, and to provoke his rage, and he does not dissemble either of these sentiments. He devotes to infamy and shame the authors of this plan, and he accuses all the archdukes of having assisted to carry it into execution. Unfortunately it has not been executed with that unanimity with which it was organized, nor followed with that vigor which could alone have ensured its success; but it is still something to have tried it; and to have given to Europe a movement that has restored it to a degree of vigor by reanimating those principles of life, which long and disastrous wars, and a tyranny equally formidable and new, had almost destroyed.

The reverses of Austria, however deplorable they have been, and however fatal their effects may be, will not destroy that impulse, and whatever be the sacrifices which necessity may impose upon that power, Bonaparte will at length perceive that a people are not to be transferred like passive masses or timid flocks—Europe far, very far, from having discovered, as he pretends, her real enemy in Austria, has taken the liveliest interest in her success, and has seen her reverses with the deepest despair.—If the egotism, the ambition, or the fears of some Cabinets have once more let slip the opportunity of throwing off the yoke of Bonaparte, the fault is the fault of a few individuals, and not the effect of the indifference or apathy of the people. They bless that power which, as he says himself, "has not only augmented her regular troops, and put in action the whole mass of her population but which has also conceived the hope of arming in her favor the whole population of Germany."—Unhappily that part of the plan has not been acted upon every where with the same vigor, on account of the first reverses of the regular army, but the impulse has been given, and Europe has seen by the resistance of the Tyrolese, and their brilliant success, what can be effected by the enthusiasm of loyalty, and the perseverance of courage.—In vain does Bonaparte compare the noble efforts of that nation to the horrors of the revolution—such an accusation will not check a people as it frightened a cabinet, and the Tyrolese will not the less continue, because they are called Brigands and Rebels, to maintain to the last extremity, the cause of their Country and their Sovereign.

This is what Bonaparte dreads—he sees by the valor and energy displayed by a handful of Mountaineers, by that fidelity which attaches them to the standard which they have received orders to abandon, that he has at length found enemies who are not subdued by his fortune, nor seduced by his promises, nor intimidated by his threats.

Translations from Spanish Papers received by the Fair American.

BADAJOS, Sept. 23.

The mail which was lately intercepted, between Marquada and Santa Cruz, and was conducted to our army, with two husbands accompanying the same, who have declared that the mail started from Bayonne on the 27th of the preceding month, and saw no movement of troops in France directed towards Spain.

Sunday, Sept. 24, contains a report of the defeat of general Junot, in Westphalia, by the Austrian general Keimayer, with the loss of 18,000 men.

CADIZ, Sept. 19.

By the last advices received from Galicia, we are informed, that a division of the Austrian troops entered St. Andro on the 20th August last.

SEVILLA, Sept. 4.

The unfortunate inhabitants of Saragossa, who witnessed the most horrible siege, and a more disconsolating epidemic, suffer at present a treatment not less terrible than death. After so many calamities, Suchet, the barbarian, has exacted exorbitant contributions, and has permitted his soldiers to lay waste the fields, without listening to the pangs of widows and orphans. No person above 14 years of age can walk the streets without a passport, which must be paid for.

CORDOVA, Sept. 19.

The French, in order to fortify themselves at Burgos, mounted on the old castle a number of cannon, and on the 15th Aug. they fired a salute, on account of the emperor's birth-day: the vibration tumbled down the castle, and buried under its ruins such artillery and troops as were on the ramparts.

By the ship Fermina, safe arrived in the port of Cadiz, the Commercial Association at London has given new relief to the Spanish patriots, consisting of the following articles:

- 20,000 caps, or bonnets
- 20,000 spatterdashes
- 35,000 shirts
- 19,992 pair cotton stockings
- 12,000 socks
- 2,000 field-kettles
- 16 medicine chests
- 40 boxes lint.

FROM A BRITISH COLONEL.

Badajoz, Sept. 19, 1809.

The head quarters of the British army are in this city. My regiment is encamped about two leagues distant with the fourth division of the army, the 5th division is on our left at Campo Mayor—the rest extends towards Merida. The army will certainly remain in its present position for 3 weeks, unless unforeseen circumstances influence the commander of the forces. My opinion is that we shall defend Portugal by advancing again into Spain. If we cannot fight the French in the Peninsula with Spain and Portugal at our backs, we certainly cannot do it with Portugal only, in the present distracted state of that kingdom. The British army at this moment is in a more efficient state than it has been at any period since this part of the continent. By retaining a short time here it will be still more so by the junction of many small detachments from almost every town in Portugal.

The most experienced officers of the army are of opinion that we are able to beat the collected forces of the French in the Peninsula whenever we meet them; that the disparity of numbers may not permit our profiting by the victory it cannot be contested; but the fate of the peninsula depends on the events in Germany, while the French have any army on this side the Pyrenees: but if we succeed in driving them to their own frontier, and rousing the dormant kingdom of Portugal into activity, those countries may still be free and independent forever, in spite of the emperor of the French, the conqueror of all the rest of the continent of Europe. Lord Wellington or his noble coher are not men of despondent character—they are not likely to forsake Spain because in one important instance their just expectation was not answered. It is evident there still exists in the government and in the people of Spain a zeal for independence. Because the British arms proved their superiority and the army of Spain was unhurt at Talavera is there any cause for despondence? in my humble opinion the lesson is turned to great profit and I look now with as much hopes to see Madrid as I did when I left Lisbon. Many Spanish regiments have been decimated and the cowards shot in view of the British soldiers.

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13.

GREAT MEN.—John Adams is a great man, and Thomas Jefferson is ditto. Two such luminaries could not exist at a time.— John Adams mounted first to the meridian. Thomas Jefferson took much pains to pull him down, in order to take his place. He finally succeeded—John Adams "passed away" and Jefferson appeared in the zenith of glory. It was thought the old sedition-stopper, the alien-hater, was set, to rise no more. But every dog must have his day. The time came when Thomas Jefferson must pass away. When he had set, Adams rose again. But he rose like the moon in a heavy fog, not to give light, but to make himself ridiculous. Thomas Jefferson, the greatest of these two great men, hired Calender, Duane, and a number of such fellows to write for him; but Adams means to perform the vile drudgery himself. Thomas Jefferson's writers have made his name to be despised by the present generation, and will hand it down detested to posterity. John Adams is doing the same for himself. When Adams has done publishing his own shame, which, if death should not be so kind to him as to put a stopper on his gullet, may not be this some years yet, we may expect Jefferson's hirelings to commence daubing him. The writings of and about these great men, if they should reach posterity, will cause much wonderment among the readers of future generations. They will be astonished to find America had enjoyed the presidential labors of two such great men in succession, in its infancy. If we can find such men for presidents in this our day, what kind of men will they have for that office in the vigor and manhood of the republic?

Commerce.—The efforts of our government to regulate commerce, have of late been of no use but to destroy it. They begin now to repeat the old story, that we cannot have any commerce. Our prospects as to trade are indeed gloomy enough, and we fear if our government undertakes to do any thing in the business they will only make it worse. We therefore hint the propriety of withdrawing the regulations on commerce, except such as regard the payment of duties, and let the merchants trade where they please, and at their own risk. We are satisfied that a considerable portion of trade would yet be carried on—enough to bring in a sufficient revenue for the ordinary expences of the government, if the merchants were left to manage their affairs in their own way. There is nothing destroys commerce like too much regulation.

Negotiations with the English minister.— On this subject the official paper is silent. Nothing respecting Mr. Erskine's arrangement or Mr. Canning's refusal has appeared for many days. What are we to infer from this silence; that things are going well or ill? We hope for the best: And we wait patiently for the meeting of Congress, when we expect to hear more on the subject. But if, contrary to our hopes and expectations, we should hear of more secret despatches and closed doors, we shall make use of such means as are in our power, to give such information to our readers as we may think proper for publication. We wish to do nothing that may in any way hinder the rolling of the "veils of government," but closed doors and secret despatches on public affairs, we abhor. An honest government has need of no secrets.

Joint Meeting.—On the second instant, JOHN CONDIT, was elected a Senator of the United States from the state of New-Jersey, by the joint meeting of its legislature.

The trade, which ought to be particularly encouraged, because it is most natural and beneficial, is that which carries our domestic productions to market, and brings back supplies for our own wants. This might be extended by inducing other nations to lay aside the discrimination they make in duties to the disadvantage of our navigation. It is believed, that this would be no very difficult task to accomplish. With England the arrangement was made some years ago of removing all discrimination on both sides and an act of parliament was passed to sanction it, but congress fearful that our navigation could not enter into a competition with that of Great Britain, if both were put upon the same footing, and alarmed perhaps by the novelty of the proposal, declined its sanction. Perhaps it would not be so easy to accomplish the matter with France, whose want of ships and seamen, when a peace takes place, would force her to the adoption of protecting expedients, until they should be restored to some degree of respectability.

(Balt. Fed. Rep.)

A letter from governor Hull, of Detroit, to his friend in Pittsfield, (Mass.) dated Sept. 16, says: "I have just returned from a visit to Michillimackinac, where I was accompanied by Mrs. Hull and my daughters. The principal object of my tour was, to hold councils with the Indians in that country, by order of the government. From Michillimackinac we made an excursion to the Sault, of St. Mary's, and between 20 and 30 miles on Lake Superior; we have been absent about six weeks. The river St. Mary is a very interesting situation; it is interspersed with beautiful islands, the waters purer perhaps, than any in the world, filled with the finest fish, and the islands remarkably fertile. In the course of time, from its local advantages, it must become a great and populous country. At the Sault is a handsome little village, and the gardens and lands, which are improved produce abundantly. On the opposite shore the North West Company has an establishment, and we received from the gentlemen who have the direction of it, every possible politeness and attention. Their houses, vessels, boats and canoes were all offered for our accommodation, and we all went more than twenty miles on Lake Superior, and dined on its shores; this lake is a most magnificent object, indeed it is an ocean.

"While at Michillimackinac, we passed our time in a most agreeable manner, we lived in the government house, which is very commodious, and attached to it the best gardens I have ever seen. During the whole time, we had the greatest abundance of the finest cherries, currants, raspberries and many other fruits. And while there I was visited by above 2000 Indians, and saw large numbers of their villages. I made them very valuable presents of clothing, and furnished their chiefs with silver medals and American flags. They were highly pleased, and all appear perfectly friendly."

Bonaparte "very ill."—The following letter, announcing this fact, is copied from the 'Aurora.'

"PARIS, Sept. 22.
"The affairs of our legation are kept with impenetrable secrecy; that something has been in hand, the more than usual intercourse, personal and literal, with Mr. Hauteville, plainly indicates. The dispositions in this country are from the head to the foot, good towards the United States; but as no important measure can be determined here, and the emperor is said to have been very ill near Vienna, we conclude that we shall not have any thing definitely concluded before his return to Paris; and when that may be is not even conjectured."

Printing in all its branches neatly executed at this office.

The editor of the Gazette having engaged a gentleman to take sketches of the proceedings of Congress the approaching session, and to give such other information as may be collected at the capitol, hopes to be enabled to make his paper interesting and useful to his numerous and liberal patrons. With such assistance as has been proffered, and of which he proposes to avail himself, he is induced to believe he can make his paper equal in respectability and usefulness to any in the United States.

OBSERVE.

The following MEDICINES are sold by ROBERT GRAY, Bookseller in King-street—and by N. HINGSTON, Fairfax-street, Alexandria.

For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant Fevers.

Lee's Anti-bilious Pills,

Prepared by Richard Lee and Son.

Persons wishing to purchase this valuable medicine, are requested to be particular in enquiring for Lee's Anti-bilious Pills, put up in wooden boxes, having on the outside wrapper the signature of Richard Lee and Son.—This is necessary, as there are other pills of the same name.

The operation of these highly esteemed pills is perfectly mild, and the experience of thousands has proved, they may be used in every situation in life without the least inconvenience or danger.

They are admirably adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions: to restore the appetite, produce a regular habit of the body, promote free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, so often attended with fatal consequences to the lives of thousands, and seldom, if ever, fail to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. Habitual costiveness, and its opposite, are removed by their wholesome influence, as also those diseases arising from them, headaches and sickness at the stomach.

It is almost unnecessary to state, that on the regular habit of the system, the health of mankind depends. To conduce to this all-important object, perhaps no medicine was ever more generally successful than these pills: they never do harm, and at least nine times out of ten afford relief to those who use them for the purposes for which they were intended.

With the most perfect confidence we recommend these pills to the public, and will only further add, that their operation is always pleasant, and that they leave nothing of that costiveness behind them too often attending medicines designed for similar purposes.

Ten years have justified us in stating these facts, during which we have had a very extensive and constantly increasing sale for this truly valuable medicine.

To the Ladies,

Whose faces and complexion are injured with Freckles, Pimples, Black Worms, Tan or Ayburn, Ringworms, Prickly Heat, &c.

To those persons is recommended

Lee's Persian Lotion,

A certain remedy for removing those disagreeable barriers to beauty, the proprietors with the most sacred regard to truth, and the credit of those medicines, assure the afflicted that all the different appearances above enumerated, are in a short time subdued by wetting the parts affected, with this pleasant fluid, according to the Directions on each bottle.

Persons therefore who regard, either what is due to themselves, or the favor and opinion of the world, who can distinguish between the comeliness of health, and the deformity of disease, and who can weigh the advantages which belong to and are inseparable from an engaging appearance, to which perhaps they themselves, have by nature, the strongest claims, are seriously assured these advantages so far as belong to a good skin, are to be obtained by the use of his Lotion, however violently they may happen to be afflicted.

Instead of the studious and debilitating courses of medicines which patients went through formerly, and which perhaps they are still too frequently obliged to undergo, it is now found that the greatest number of these complaints are most certainly & speedily removed by the use of local remedies merely, than they ever were by a contrary course.

LEE'S LOTION

Is celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe as an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals (the basis of other lotions) and of unparalleled efficacy in preventing and removing blemishes in the face and skin, of every kind, it operates mildly without impeding that natural, insensible perspiration, which is so essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and clear, improving the complexion and restoring the bloom of youth. Sold at the Bookstore.

The article has on the outside wrapper, the signature of

RICHARD LEE & SON.

Persons not attending to the above, are liable to be imposed upon.

August 9.

Lee's Worm-destroying Lozenges.

This medicine is superior to any ever offered to the public, being innocent and mild certain and efficacious in its operations.—Should no worms exist in the body, it will without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders.

Lee's Grand Restorative.

Proved by long extensive experience, to be absolutely unparalleled in the cure of nervous disorders, consumptions, looseness of spirits, loss of appetite, impurity of blood, hysterical affections, inward weaknesses, violent cramps in the stomach and bad indigestion, melancholy, gout in the stomach, pains in the limbs, relaxations, involuntary emissions, obstinate gleet, fluit albus (for whites), impotency, barrenness &c. &c.

Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Essence & Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprain bruises, pains in the face and neck, &c.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch.

Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application, and may be used with the most perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury, or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and is not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the use of other remedies.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.

THE subscriber intending to leave this state, offers for sale the FARM on which he now resides, lying on Potomack Creek, about 3/4 of a mile from Potomac River, and sixteen below Alexandria, containing 520 acres; about 200 of which are well timbered. The situation is remarkably healthy, and commands a beautiful view of the Potomac from Mount Vernon to several miles below the Indian Head. The soil is productive, and a part of it well adapted to Timothy and Clover. The improvements are two good dwelling houses, kitchens, barns, stables, &c. and a large orchard of excellent fruit trees, all of which are now in a bearing state. A liberal credit will be given for part of the purchase money. The land will be shown at any time by application to the subscriber.

A further Proof

Yarwood's useful Washing Machine.

We the subscribers have lived, on trial, Joseph Yarwood's Patent Washing Machine to answer fully the intended purpose of washing cloths of every description, and do hereby recommend them to the public as a great saving of soap, labor and cloths. Given under our hands this day of June, 1809.

Dick, Susanna Rounsaville, Elizabeth Wilson, Elizabeth Snyder, Nancy Keil, Sarah Kelsberger, Margaret B. Manley, Mary Fendall, Mary Steel, Sarah Fitzhugh, Mary Duffly, Persia Hodgkin, Carolina Hopkins, Sarah B. McKenay, Elizabeth Muir, Polly Rhoades, Elizabeth Longden, Ann Snowden, Ann Davies, Mary Bogan, Mary Slade, Betsey Turner, Mary Smith, Sarah G. Jamner.

With pleasure I do return my sincere thanks to the above named ladies, and many others who have favored me with their certificates and custom in the purchase of Yarwood's Patent Washing Machine. I find them still in great demand in this place, but finding a very great scarcity of plank to answer the purpose of making them here, I shall in a few days or weeks commence making them to the southward. But will endeavor to supply others at a short notice after my return. I have a few now made on hand, which can be had if applied for soon.

Wm. C. Newton,

Assignee of Joseph Yarwood.

July 24.

N. B. Mr. John Troup will superintend the making, and supplying customers in my absence.

Wm. C. NEWTON.

DIRECTIONS HOW TO USE YARWOOD'S Patent Washing Machine.

First fill the barrel half full of your finest cloths, then fill the bottom of the Reservoir with hot suds up to the side planks, turn the Crank backwards and forwards so as to make the cloths fall the farthest against the sides of the barrel for about twenty-five minutes, then use the same suds with a little more soap, and hot water for the next finest cloths; until the suds are unfit for use, then add your cloths in the same way with boiling suds, after which a little soap on the dirtiest parts of the cloths; then rinse them in the machine in warm or cold water.
